Customer Reviews

With in-depth accounts of both the history and the contemporary scene, this handsome, detailed, oversize volume in the Peoples and Cultures of Africa series is a fine, highly readable, close-up view of one diverse region's main ethnic groups, cultures, languages, religions, arts, and more. The design will encourage browsing; the paper is thick, the type clear, and full-color photographs, maps, and charts appear on every double-page spread. The in-depth discussion, which will be great for reports, includes coverage of early conquests, such as the genocide and displacement of the Herero people from southwest Africa, as well as recent conflicts in Zimbabwe and elsewhere. A contemporary photo of Johannesburg brings home the continuing postapartheid split between the affluent and the poor. The island of Madagascar, with its unique flora and fauna, is also part of the story. Other volumes include Nations and Personalities, which profiles every nation on the continent and includes biographies of 300 Africans. Hazel Rochman Copyright © American Library Association.
