Roger Price and Leonard Stern created Mad Libs in the 1950s and the series has been a favorite among kids of all ages ever since. Although Roger Price passed away in 1990, Leonard Stern keeps the tradition alive by writing new Mad Libs all the time. Roger Price and Leonard Stern are both well known for their comedy writing. In the 1950s Roger Price created and developed cartoons called Doodles, which were turned into a television show. Before that Price worked with Bob Hope on a newspaper humor column, and he even appeared on Broadway in Tickets, Please! Leonard Stern has an equally colorful and varied history. Before co-founding Price Stern Sloan with Roger Price (Sloan came later), Stern was a successful television writer. In addition to his creative involvement with over twenty television series and over ten motion pictures, Stern worked with Jackie Gleason in New York writing the Honeymooners. He also wrote for the Phil Silvers Show, The Steve Allen Show, and wrote and produced the original Get Smart television series. Recently, Stern published A Martian Wouldn't Say That, which compiled weird and wacky memos written by people in the entertainment industry. Currently, Stern serves as a senior vice president of Price Stern Sloan, where he still writes those hilarious Mad Libs. copyright © 2000 by Penguin Putnam Books for Young Readers. Bought these for the my daughters high school graduation party. I also had a DJ, ping pong, along with many other games, yet the teens spend more time paying with the Mad Libs than doing anything else. Who knew entertaining teens could be so cheap? Bought two for the party so not all the teens had to rely on taking turns with one book and I would advise the same, buy more books considering the size of the guest list. I will purchase them again at my next daughters party. Great for high school graduation, but wouldn't advise for other graduations.

Instead of buying graduation cards this year I purchased this mad libs for graduates. I think that it made a great gift/card all rolled up in one.

I purchased this for a high school graduate. We were on a road trip to celebrate the graduate, and she had other friends with her, too. They did some of these while riding, and I heard several laughs coming from the back of the car, so I think they enjoyed them. They were pretty silly and ridiculous, maybe even a little too young, but they're Mad Libs, and who doesn't like a Mad Lib, no matter what age!!! :)

exactly what I wanted, arrived quickly

This was a fun graduation gift for students I have tutored. Mad Libs are really enjoyable and graduation ones are a lot of fun!

The graduate loved it because it was crazy and his Grandmother got it for him. He was very happy.

fun grad gift to have at a party.

This was an additional grad gift!
