Customer Reviews

Mainly I am writing this review because I want to thank Neal Unger for being who he is. I first came across him on YouTube and found him so inspiring. It means a lot to me to see someone who's older, but who is resilient, has a sense of fun, and still knows how to play. I am forty two, work a desk job, and was at a point where I was feeling sick physically and spiritually. Life is not meant to be constantly repeating the same boring tasks, life is meant to be danced with and enjoyed. We need to become like children and remember how to play again. I used to skate a lot when I was in my teens and well into my twenties, but quit when I thought I was 'too old' for it. After watching Neal having fun on YouTube and reading his book, I am gonna start skating again. I just landed a kickflip on my back patio, so I know the muscle memory is still there. Neal, thank you so much for being who you are! I am so inspired by you...you are a beautiful human being. Thank you so much!

This is a great work, wonderful insights and boundless imagination. This little book will give you new perceptions of life and help free you from your limited boundaries and beliefs. I recommend this to anyone looking to find new aspects of the life journey to help them expand their peace and awareness on this short little journey here on Earth. Bravo!
