Imperial Hotel: A Historical Lesbian Romance

Synopsis

In a posh hotel in New York City in 1948, two young socialites are introduced by their mothers. As their friendship grows, so does love. Will Lily and Joan's love prevail? Are they brave enough to stand up against the social standards of the time, or will their love simply become part of the history of the Imperial Hotel?

Customer Reviews

Another winning short story by one of my favorite writers, Diane Marina. Her prose is beautiful, almost delicate; her stories blossom like roses and are just as deliciously fragrant. What a superb telling of two young girls who fall in love and commit to a lifetime together. I adored this sweet story so much. I look forward to Marina's upcoming work. You will not be disappointed, especially if you are a hopeless romantic like me.

Diana Marina writing is full of tenderness and this book was no different. Courage was needed by our ladies to obtain happiness. Excellent reading, highly recommended.

It is a story of love, but of a different kind. To be honest, I didn't know what I had gotten because it was free. I am not one to read about same-sex couples and definitely not the one to like them. But this was different. I liked it, maybe because it was about love and not sex.

Another great work from Dianne Marina. I felt transported to the era and truly felt like a witness. As usual her characters are well developed and so amazingly genuine. I was right there with them. More than once I was caught off guard in such wonderful ways. It brought tears to my eyes.

The characters are endearing, the story is not boring and it really appears that the author knows the time period she is talking about which is really important for this kind of story. I really recommend it to anyone who wants to have a pleasant jump in the past

A wonderful lesbian romance with a surprise ending. Ms. Maina gives us a fast paced page turning romance, which I read in one sitting. You'll be glad to find this new author. I look forward to her future short stories and novels with eager anticipation. ChristieP

Excellent romantic short story. The language used to tell the story, is really evocative of the time period. I loved the feel of the old New York, and the old, elegant hotel. Highly recommended.

Written with great detail. Character development was strong and the connection I felt to the story was sincere. Looking forward to reading more by Marina.
