Customer Reviews

Inspiration for this book came from the many children and young adults who demonstrated great courage while their loved ones faced a life-threatening illness. Their fantastic ability to ask questions, openly share feelings, and willingness to explore new areas of life and death, contributed greatly to their healing and the inspiration of this book.

Stephanie A. Jonah is a registered nurse, currently working in hospice. She has worked for many years with children and adults, in a variety of settings including hospitals, hospice, as a guest speaker for children whose parents have a life-threatening illness, home visits, and volunteering in a Romanian orphanage.

I have used this little booklet for several years in my position as Bereavement Coordinator with our local hospice. I highly recommend this book for anyone who has or knows of a child or a teenager who is/will experience the death of a loved one. Shirley Pauole
